How we use your data

When you arrange to have medical or cosmetic treatments at Sage Aesthetic, you are entering into a contract with us for those services. At a consultation and throughout the treatment process, we collect and store (process) personal information about you. We also process what's called "special category personal information", e.g information about your health, so that we are clear about any relevant health or medical issues. We need to make sure we have a legal basis to do that by law. Sage Aesthetic process your data because it is necessary in order for us to provide you with medical and cosmetic services. We keep a record of the personal information you provide to us to establish your safety and suitability for treatment whilst you are a client of ours, and in the event we need to contact you about your appointment. The information you give us may be shared with bodies that regulate how we provide services to you, such as Healthcare Inspectorate Scotland and the General Medical Council, but only when it is necessary to do so. Your information is kept for 6 years from the date of your last treatment, as long as you have asked us to provide you with medical or cosmetic treatments. If you choose not to engage our services, but have made an enquiry, or attended a consultation with us, we will keep your information for 6 years from the date you submitted the enquiry or attended the consultation. We need to retain your data for this period of time for financial and insurance purposes.

Your Rights

You've got legal rights about the way Sage Aesthetic handles and uses your data, which include the right to ask for a copy of it, and to ask us to stop doing something with your data. Please contact us by email at sageaesthetic@me.com or in writing at: Sage Aesthetic, The Farmhouse, Upper Terryvale, Dunecht, AB32 7BS.

You also have the right to make a complaint to the Information Commissioner's Office, (www.ico.org.uk). They are the body responsible for making sure organisations like Sage Aesthetic handle your data lawfully.

Our legal basis

Wherever Sage Aesthetic processes personal data, we need to tell you our legal basis for doing so in Data Protection Law. Sage Aesthetic understands its legal basis for processing personal information in order to provide you with medical and cosmetic services as Article 6(1)(b) and Article 6(1)(f) of the General Data Protection Regulation. We also need to be clear about our legal basis for processing special categories of personal information, we do that under Article 9(2)(h) of the General Data Protection Regulation.
